Marshalltown Medical & Surgical Center changes face of Web site

By TIMES-REPUBLICAN

A fresh look and feel to the Web site of Marshalltown Medical & Surgical Center is aiming to serve patients with better access to services and preparations for a visit.

This week MMSC announced new features at

www.everydaychampions.org, including improved navigation and functionality, easier access to health and hospital services so that patients and families can prepare for a visit to the hospital, stories about patients, enhanced information on physicians and staff, and the latest services and medical technologies at the hospital.

"We are confident that our new Web site will provide people with quick and easy access to all of our services and physician information to assist consumers in making educated choices about their medical care," said Liz Zuercher, MMSC marketing and public relations director.

"Our hospital team, along with our external partners at BDH Technology, were able to produce an effective, appealing and user-friendly Web site which is still evolving. We are very pleased with the results," she said.
